

HUGHES BACK FROM WEST TO REGISTER

They Start Up State for Trip Through Broome and Chemung Counties.

Gov. Hughes returned to New York today after his long swing through the Middle West. He is in excellent health and spirits, his voice is strong, and he begins this afternoon a vigorous campaign in the western part of the State covering ground that has already been gone over by his opponent, Lieut.-Gov. Chandler.

The Governor came in from the West over the Pennsylvania Railroad, accompanied by Col. Theodore H. Smith, military secretary, reaching the West Twenty-third street ferry station at 8 o'clock. An automobile was waiting, and Gov. Hughes went at once to the hotel place at Eighth avenue and Forty-fifth street, and registered at the Hotel Astor, where he makes his legal residence in this city.

After registering he went to the Astor for breakfast, and then he went to the office of Herbert Parsons, Chairman of the Republican County Committee, Mr. Parsons urged Gov. Hughes to spend as much time as he can spare during the remainder of the campaign in working in this city. The Governor left at 10 o'clock for a trip out to Elmira and Binghamton way over the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western on his way to the train he said to an Evening World reporter:

"I have had a delightful trip through the West, and am greatly interested in the high prospects of Republican success everywhere. My work has been hard, but it has done me good. I never felt better in my life."

A Bit of History

(To be Continued Tomorrow)

ALEXANDER T. STEWART, of Belfast, after taking a degree at Trinity College, at the age of 20, landed in New York at the Battery in 1823. His first work in America was teaching school in Roosevelt street, near Pearl.

The turning point of his life was the loaning of a small sum of money to a young man friend to open a small dry goods store. It was a part of his patrimony which he brought over with him from Ireland. His friend was unable to begin business, and Mr. Stewart concluded to undertake it himself. He took the remainder of his little fortune; went to Ireland; bought a stock of Belfast laces amounting to about $3,000, and the New York "Daily Advertiser" of September 2, 1825, announced in an advertisement "A. T. Stewart offers for sale a general assortment of Fresh Dry Goods, at 283 Broadway," a store 25 feet front, opposite his later wholesale warehouse, of which he had but a half front with a lodging-room in the rear.

In 1826 he moved to 262 Broadway, a larger store, and not long afterward to 257 Broadway. (All three buildings shown in picture above.)

In 1848 he built the marble store at Broadway and Chambers street. In 1862

Mr. Stewart bought part of the old Randall Farm, bounded by Ninth and Tenth and Broadway and Fourth avenue, and erected a six-story iron building with two basements, for a Retail Store. The cost of lot and structure, as stated at the time by the New York "Tribune," "was $2,750,000," and "the two stores" at lower and upper Broadway, "which Mr. Stewart built, are the proudest monuments of Commercial enterprise in this country. The trade transacted in them is almost fabulous."

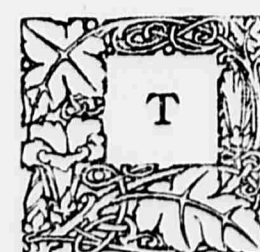

In those days no one ever thought of classing these businesses of Mr. Stewart as Department Stores, though his Retail Store consisted of various Departments, including Carpets, Rugs and Furniture. Nor is the old eight-floored Stewart Store of today a Department Store in any sense; for it is exclusively a Woman's Store of Dry Goods and Wearing Apparel only.

After the death of Mr. Stewart, the wholesale business was discontinued at Broadway and Chambers street, and the retail business was confined to Tenth and Broadway, and continued, in one form or another, until 1896, when the building and the stocks of merchandise became the property of the present owner, and the sign went up on the building

HE business immediately swung back to its old Polar Star and began its new career. Mr. Stewart once said: "My business has been a matter of principle from the start. That is all there is about it."

Restoring the abandoned work of New York's greatest merchant; lighting up the empty house that cost nearly Three Millions of Dollars, and revivifying what was said to be a dying neighborhood is now a part of the history of the greatest Commercial City of the world.

Ten years' growth of the business at Tenth and Broadway overloaded the old Stewart Building and compelled impossible enlargements or removal to another neighborhood. We determined to stop at the old neighborhood, having satisfied ourselves of the possibilities of the old location; and also resolved to avail ourselves of the cheaper leasehold of the old Snug Harbor, and immediately secured a whole block, next adjoining, upon lease of nearly one hundred years, upon which we erected a mammoth fireproof building, built expressly to convenient and a equal throng of people on a floors.

From the first we planned to devote this magnificent new structure to a group of Galleries for Furnishing and Decoration, such as New York has not hitherto contained, and to introduce New ideas of administration to this business to Artists, Decorators, Architects and Home-Builders, and the people generally.

On Wednesday we shall inaugurate

The Wanamaker Galleries Furnishing & Decoration

opening them to the public for the first time.

It will be a day of courtesy. No goods will be sold in the Galleries on Wednesday.

The Wanamaker Store

All the Way from San Salvador

Comes a letter to us which says:

"Our things from Wanamaker's arrived in excellent condition—not a scratch on anything, and nothing broken. It was a great satisfaction."

Quite a good record, that—down the Atlantic coast, across the Isthmus of Panama, and up the other side. But it is "all in a day's work"—we could not successfully reach out over the globe with our service if we did not try our hardest with safe and prompt delivery of the little package to Brooklyn or Harlem.

And how we complete the rest of the circuit, by bringing the world to Wanamaker's, is absorbingly illustrated in the superb displays of home and foreign goods in our two buildings today.

Housekeepers Will Gladly Share in These Handsome Quadruple Silver-plated Wares

The product of the best silverware factories in the country is represented in this varied gathering of hand-ome pieces, which come to us to sell

At a Quarter to One-third Below Their Value

because they are not to be included in the new catalogs of these firms. But their attractiveness is not lessened a bit, though the prices are. There are not more than two or three pieces of a kind in most cases; so there is a premium on early selection. The ware is of the very quadruple silver-plated sort, that will wear almost as well as sterling silver at much less cost.

A partial list of the pieces:

8-piece Coffee Sets, $4.75, $5 and $7.50, worth $6, $6.75 and $9.75.

Rich Black Silk-faced VELVETS at 55c a Yard

It is a long time since we had such good news as this to tell of Black Silk-faced Velvets. Wanamaker sales of these goods were notable for the interest they aroused among dress makers and women who did their own dressmaking.

We have two hundred pieces of a splendid, lustrous, thick-piled quality, to sell at 55c a yard, for a regular $55 grade. The black is a fine, deep color; and the velvet is excellent for women's suits, wraps, millinery and dress-trimming purposes. It is a decidedly unusual offering.

Second floor, Old Building.

Notable Specimens of Oriental RUGS

The standard for admission into our collection of Oriental Rugs is very high. We insist on absolute truth of statement, so that the rug that has to be bolstered up with fairy tales, in order to sell it, has no place here.

This gathering of rugs that possesses our confidence, and deserves yours, is remarkable in scope and beauty. There are Bokhara Rugs, firm and closely woven, in splendid colorings; a superb group of Antique Daghestans, also Fereghan, Herat, Cabistan, Serabend, Khorassan, Ghordes, Suk, and other Persian weaves.

Especially attention is called to our showing of the finer Persian—Kirmanshah, Goravan, Sarook and Mahal Rugs. And these offerings of particular interest:

Kirmanshah Rugs

In light, delicate effects, admirable for parlor, drawing room and bedroom—cream, rose, soft blues and greens. About forty of these beautiful rugs at decided price-savings, of which we quote a few:

15 ft. 10 in. x 10 ft. 8 in., at $545, from $685.
13 ft. 10 in. x 9 ft. 10 in., at $410, from $515.
14 ft. 10 in. x 10 ft. 7 in., at $25, from $675.
13 ft. 9 in. x 8 ft. 8 in., at $295, from $375.
And many others.

We also have a very attractive lot of about three hundred

Small Rugs at $12, $13.50, $15, and $16.75 including some splendid Kazak, Mosul, Kurdistan, Daghestan and Guendje Rugs, in convenient sizes—widths from 3 to 4 ft. 3 in., lengths from 5 ft. to 7 ft. 6 in.—for halls, bedrooms, or to place in front of the hearth.
